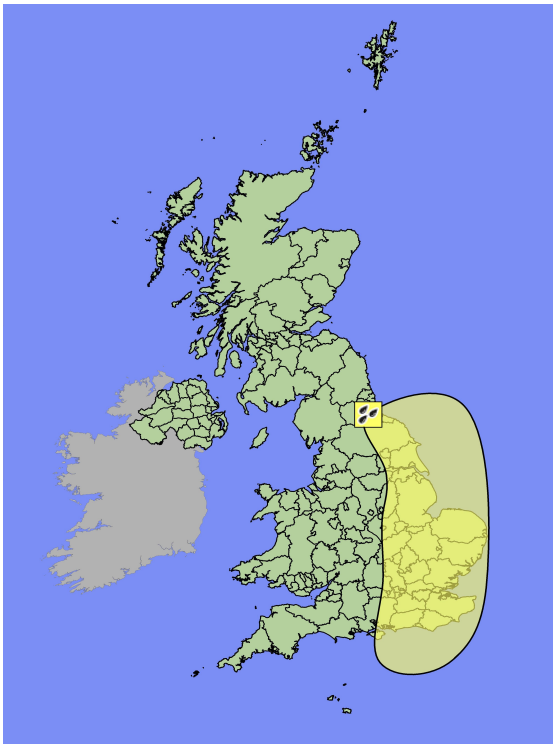
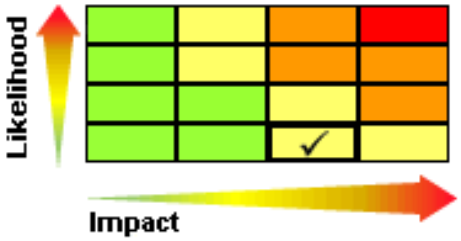
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
The very high temperatures (locally into the 30's of Celsius), combined with high humidity could generate some intense thunderstoms as the weather breaks down. As is often the case in thundery summer weather, many places, even within the risk area, will miss the worst of these storms.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 15:00 on Mon, 27th Jun 2011 until 12:00 on Tue, 28th Jun 2011

Heavy showers and thunderstorms are expected to develop in places during Monday afternoon and evening, persisting through into Tuesday. These have the potential to bring localised rainfall totals of 25-50 mm in a few hours, with a risk of flash flooding and large hail.
